TAMMANY'S FOURTH.

MR. BYNUM GOES FOR REED WITH GLOVES OFF.

T. Cleveland Writes a Letter.—He says There is Danger to Personal Rights—And he Wants the People to be Watchful and Careful.

(By United Press.)

NEW YORK, July 4.—The society of Tammany celebrated the 114th anniversary of American Independence in their hall to-day. Grand Sachem Tappan, made a brief address of welcome and the Tammany glee club sang "Hail to Our Beautiful Land." The Declaration of Independence was read by George B. McClellan, son of the distinguished General, who was received with hearty applause.

The first of the "long talks" was given by the Hon. Wm. D. Bynum, of Indiana, who fiercely attacked Speaker Reed, saying that for months the people had witnessed the presiding officer of the House of Representatives trampling upon the rights of the people, over riding the principles of the constitution to rob constituents of their right of representation and so forth. Hon. Chas. Crisp, of Georgia, and others followed.

Mr. Cleveland wrote a letter in which he said: "The celebration contemplated by your ancient and time honored organization, will, it seems to me, fall short in the impressions done to the occasion, if it does not persistently present and emphasize the idea that the Declaration of Independence was the protest of honest and sturdy men against the wrongs and oppressions of misgovernment. The reasons and justification for their revolt are exhibited in their recall of a long list of grievous instances of maladministration."

They claimed that their interests had been neglected and their rights as lawful subjects so violated under British rule, that they were absolved from further fealty. Our fathers in establishing a new government upon the will of the people and consecrated to their care and just protection, could not prescribe limitations which would deny to political parties its conduct and administration. The opportunities and temptations thus necessarily presented to partisanship, have brought us to a time when party control is far too arrogant and bitter and when in public places, the true interests of the country are too lightly considered.

In this predicament, those who love their country, may well remember with comfort and satisfaction on Independence Day, that the disposition of the American people to revolt against maladministration still remains to them, and is the badge of their freedom and independence, as well as their security for continued prosperity and happiness. They will not revolt against their plan of government for its protection and preservation supply every inspiration of true Americanism. But because they are free and independent American citizens, they will as long as their love and veneration for the government shall last revolt against the domination of any political party, which entrusted with power, sordidly seeks only its continuance, and which faithfully violating its plain and simple duty, insults them with professions of disinterested solicitude, while it eats out their substance. And yet, with all this, we should not in blind security, deny the existence of danger.

Our perils lie in the ease with which they may be deluded and cajoled by those who would traffic with their interests. No occasion is more opportune than the celebration of the one hundred and fourteenth anniversary of American Independence, to warn the American people of the present necessity on their part of vigilant watchfulness of their rights and a jealous exaction of honest and unselfish performance of public duty.

THE SOLDIERS' HOME FAIR.

Another Big Night—A Great Crowd in Attendance—And Everybody Delighted.

Last night was a culminating success for the Soldiers' Home Fair. In fact the whole day was a success, for it was opened early in the morning, and there was a good crowd in attendance all day.

At ten o'clock the management of the fair began serving out barbecue, and this with the other choice things offered for the comfort of the inner man boreft many a dinner table of its accustomed habits for the day.

But the evening was the biggest time, and its softness and mildness tempted out the largest crowd that has yet attended.

Happy groups sat here and there sipping lemonade, discussing ice cream, or disposing of more substantial delicacies in a summary manner.

The evening was a success socially and financially, and was a charm and delight for everybody.

There were many visitors on the ground from various places, and they all pronounced the fair to be one of the very nicest and most delightful affairs they had ever known.

Rev. P. F. W. Stamey Dead.

A private telegram was received here yesterday announcing the death of Rev. P. F. W. Stamey, Presiding Elder of the Trinity College district, at his home in High Point. Mr. Stamey will be remembered in Raleigh as having assisted in a revival service at Edenton Street church several years ago.

Fight in a Barber Shop.

There was a lively row in Locklear's barber shop, under Julius Lewis & Co's. store, yesterday. Locklear who is the boss of the shop and Alexander Barnett who is one of the barbers there had a very active disagreement about something. Indeed the argument was so very obstreperous, that the police had to go in as an arbitration committee.

The officers found Barnett carrying on his argument with a big three legged stool, while Locklear was presenting his side of the question with a heavy light-wood stick four feet long and three inches wide. Both parties were arrested and bound over to court. Barnett, it appears, had been celebrating the "Fourth" with the assistance of "single leg" liquid, and his humor and temper was a little too rash for Locklear. Barnett's arm was considerably gashed up.

Base Ball.

The game yesterday at Athletic park was a very interesting one. There were several fine plays, and also several glaring errors. The Oxford team finally won the game by a score of ten to four. The playing of the Oxford team was good and elicited much applause from the enthusiastic spectators. The players were as follows:

OXFORD.—Dunn, c. f.; Overton, 2b.; Kain, s. f.; West, p.; Lanier, c.; Jones, 3b.; Davin, r. f.; Turner, 1b.; Weetly, r. f.

RALEIGH.—Busbee, l. f.; Dickson, c.; Kimball, c. b.; Jones, r. f.; Mills, s. s.; Dunn, 1b.; Wynn, c. f.; Holding, p.; Andrews, 3b.

Umpire—Mr. Smoot, Henderson.

A HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Four Men Dashed Down a Mining Shaft.

(By United Press.)

BUENA VISTA, VA., July 4, 1890.—A horrible accident occurred at the Buena Vista Iron Mine, one half mile north of this city this morning. There are 200 laborers employed by the company for day and night work. At 4 o'clock the night men were called off and the hoist was let down in the mine to convey them to the top. Six men boarded it and all went well until within ten feet of the top when the shaft gave way, causing the rope to break. Three men leaped for their lives and two succeeded in clinging to the siding until they were rescued. The four unfortunate were hurled down the shaft, a distance of 150 feet, to the bottom.

The dead are: Eli Painter, John Montgomery and Litz Snead, killed outright; Floyd Marion had his collar bone broken and received injuries internally but will probably recover.

Loved to See the Fire Horses Run.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 4.—Johnny Hampdon, 5 years old, has been arrested for causing three destructive fires here recently. The only reason that he gave for this destroying property was that he "wanted to see the fire department horses run."

HILL'S BOOM GROWING.

MRS. HENDRICKS HOPES THAT HE "WILL GET THERE," AND ALL "THE BOYS" ARE FOR HIM.

Governor Hill Made a Big Impression On His Recent Visit to Indiana. (New York Herald.)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. July 2.—Governor Hill has scored a great political point by his visit to Indiana. The most ardent supporters of ex-President Cleveland admit that before Hill came among the Hoosiers he had but few followers among them. To-night all "the boys" are for Hill.

He has been courted by Democrats big and little since he arrived in the city, and he seems to have made friends with all whom he has met. Several newspaper men have tried to interview him, but he has declined to say anything for publication.

Major General Sikes and R. R. Soper are doing the Governor's talking on the trip. The former said to the newspaper men to-day that "if New York furnishes a Democratic candidate in 1892 Hill will be the man."

The Governor's candidacy, so long hinted about by Western politicians, has become a living fact, so far as Indiana is concerned.

The Governor and Mrs. Hendricks. Governor Hill and General Sikes this morning took a drive with Mr. H. D. Pierce, brother-in-law of Mr. Hendricks, and called upon Mrs. Hendricks. The conversation with the distinguished lady was free and easy, and much of it would make excellent reading. A part of the conversation I am able to present.

There was much talk about Mr. Cleveland, in which, by the way, Mr. Hill had little to say.

General Sikes remarked that Cleveland had been unfortunate in giving offense to the old line Democrats and taken up with new men. There was a general laugh over the fact recalled by one present that Mr. Cleveland had taken up with the civil service reformers a little prematurely before he knew much about them. Governor Hill greatly praised a likeness of Mr. Hendricks, whereat Mr. Pierce directed attention to the picture of Mrs. Hendricks' deceased son Morgan.

"Madam," remarked the Governor to Mrs. Hendricks, "do you observe that there is a vein on the side of the boy's head which bears a remarkable likeness to something in the picture of the Vice-President there?"

Mrs. Hendricks was much affected, and going to the Governor's side seized his hand and remarked:—"Governor, I hope you will get there," speaking, it seems, of the coming Presidential campaign.

Governor Hill was otherwise very complimentary. Incidentally the Indiana Reformatory for Women was referred to, and the fact was mentioned that Mrs. Hendricks was the head of this institution, which has been the first in the land to separate the youths and the old male and female criminals.

"Madam, I hope," said the Governor, "I shall go back to New York and tell them that Mrs. Hendricks is at the head of such an institution."

Before the visitors left Mrs. Hendricks presented Governor Hill with a gold-headed cane which had been given to Gov. Hendricks by the State officers in 1876. She also gave General Sikes a cane which Gov. Hendricks had received from the Shelby county Democracy in the fifties.

Honors to the Governor.

Senator McDonald and Mr. Pierce dined with Governor Hill after the call. Governors Campbell, of Ohio, and Francis, of Missouri, of course received much attention, but Hill took the honors all along the line. He was cheered frequently during the progress of the procession, and received an ovation when he responded to a call for a speech at the unveiling.

There is some criticism of ex-President Cleveland for not accepting the invitation to be present. He sent a brief letter to Secretary Holman, of the Monument Commission, saying that a positive engagement kept him away. This evening the friends of the ex-President gave it out that they had assurance from Mr. Cleveland that he would attend the next meeting of the Indiana Tariff Reform League, and those who haven't gone over to Hill say that Mr. Cleveland will, when he comes to town, easily level all the fences Governor Hill may have built on this occasion.

Ex-Governor Gray has been in conference with Hill much since the New York Governor arrived in town, and politicians generally take it that there has been some talk of a scheme which will work in the interest of Hill and Gray for 1892.

The N. Y. World report says: The visit of Gov. Hill to Mrs. Hendricks was regarded as having a good share of political significance. They had not previously met, but the lady had learned from her eminent husband to admire New York's Governor and was prepared to honor him. She presented him a fine ebony cane which was given to her husband by the State officers of Indiana on New Year's, 1873, and at parting she said:

"Remember now, Governor, if you let Cleveland beat you for that nomination never come into this house again."

AT MOREHEAD.

The Delights of the Atlantic—Gov. Jarvis.

ATLANTIC HOTEL, MOREHEAD CITY, July 3rd.

I pulled up a chair to a group of gentlemen this morning, and just at the moment I heard one say something about the "Atlantic." He spoke in such glowing and enthusiastic terms that I at first thought he was something of an enthusiast, and that he was, giving vent to those emotions which actuate the enthusiast's breast on his first sight of the grand ocean. I thought he was talking about the Atlantic ocean, but a moment later I knew he was talking about the "Atlantic Hotel." He proved to be a gentleman who had traveled the earth over, and he was profuse in expressions of admiration and appreciation of the management and comforts of the hotel.

And he is only one of the many hundreds of people I have heard speak in the same way.

It is very evident that unusual energy and skill have been expended in the general management here this season. Mr. Omega Foster (of Foster Bros.) is the resident manager. He opened the great hotel this season with a set determination to please and gratify everybody, and his success has been phenomenal. I heard an old hotelist say to-day that he had never seen any house more efficiently and pleasantly conducted than this.

There is one gentleman here who is so much delighted with the place that he will try to stay around it awhile. He is Mr. C. B. Arrington, of the Jos. Dixon Crucible Company, and he has been all over the ends of the earth. He unequivocally says that he was never so delighted with a public stopping place, and that he never saw such affability and amiability in hotel men as he has found in "Mine Host" Foster and his assistants. Mr. Arrington has been interesting members of the Educational Association with Dixon's American graphite pencil, and to-day he gave an entire box of assorted pencils to each teacher and member. Those whom he struck this way will use nothing but Dixon's pencils in the future.

I add my endorsement to what he says about the Atlantic Hotel.

The proprietors are not "professional" proprietors. They are more accustomed to being hotel guests than to being hotel hosts, and having often struggled with guests at many places, and having heard the various criticisms and "cussing" passed on hotels in general, they know what the general public want when they are guests. And I say unhesitatingly that they are making a conscientious and very successful effort to meet the wants and wishes of every guest, particularly as to table fare. This feature is the object of special attention. It is under the supervision of a chef, who gets a larger salary than the Governor, and the profuse bill of fare is always served in elegant and most appealing style. It always includes all the substantial and delicacies of sea food, and also the meats and fruits from the most noted stock and fruit hills and valleys in this country.

The head waiter bears the aristocratic sounding name of Van Dusen, and is from Lake Mackinac, Michigan. His politeness is a genuine study and pleasure. He has an eye as keen as a hawk's, and woe betide the waiter who brings in a dish, or knife, or fork, with a greasy spot on either, or who is tardy in attending a guest who is seated at the table.

All these things combine to make the dining room a real delight as it has proven to be here this season.

The gentle "winds are never weary" here; the rooms have lattice doors, and the guests of the house may sleep or slumber, where there is a never failing zephyr to caress and cool them.

Personal.

There's no man here or elsewhere who moves about or acts with more gentlemanly dignity than Hon. T. J. Jarvis. I have watched him for some days past, and I know now that the more one sees of him, the more one feels willing to "take a man—a true man." He seems to enjoy the societies of his place without participating in them. His pleasure is "looking on." He likes the evening sail to the surf, but he doesn't seem to care for the surf. Rather than go boating at morning or midday, he sits with a circle of friends and I have noticed that in these circles he does the greater part of the entertaining. He has attended all the religious services promptly since he has been here, and to-night I heard him close the Y. M. C. A. meeting in assembly hall with prayer. It appears to me that there is dignity and grace in every thing he says and does; and as I have noticed him several times recently, I could not help thinking and feeling that North Carolina wanted and needed him in the gubernatorial chair again; and it is more than superfluous to say that there are thousands of people who would be glad to see him succeed the present very excellent and honored Chief Executive.

BOSTON'S POLITICS.

DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES GAINING GROUND AT THE HUB.

The Thinkers and Political Economists Are All Joining The Democratic Party—Some Evidences of The Growth of Democracy.

(Editorial Correspondence.)

BOSTON, MASS., June 23, 1890.—The strongholds of Republicanism are giving way to Democratic thought, and Democratic principles are taking hold upon the intellect of the entire Republic. This is seen nowhere more plainly than in Boston. Here is the early home of the Republican party; here in the home of SUMNER and HENRY WILSON and a host of other great lights in the Republican party, in the days of its youth and invincible power, the principles of Democracy have entered and they are leavening the whole lump of the body politic. Boston, the "hub" of learning and culture, is a Democratic city, and the entire Bay State is hanging in the balances. Ever since I was a school-boy I have heard it said: "The respectability and culture of the South is in the Democratic party, but in the North it is just the other way. The Northern Democracy is merely the 'scum of society.'" Every Southern boy has been told that day after day until many people in the South have really come to believe it. There never was a greater slander upon any people. The majority of the wealthy and educated people of the North have belonged to the Republican party in the past, but there never was a time when the Democratic ranks did not contain thousands and tens of thousands of the best educated and most intellectual people in the Northern and Western States. It is the glory of the Democracy that it has ever been the refuge of the poor and oppressed, and that it has ever held a poor farmer entitled to just as much protection and equality as the richest manufacturer who is made rich at the expense of the rest of mankind. The poor of the North and the South alike ought to be Democrats, if they are not. The Republican party has taxed and burdened them sorely enough to drive them into the Democratic fold. They have seen a tariff laid for twenty-five years with the ostensible purpose of protecting American labor, and seen it go into the pockets of their employers. Many of them are Democrats, and they are among the truest and best in the great organization. The division on party lines in this part of the North, at least, is coming to be this: The men who are protected and all voters they can control, and the bitter sectionalists compose the Republican party; the educated portion of the population who understand political economy, together with the reading and thinking farmers, mechanics and clerks compose the Democratic party. The best evidence of this is seen at Harvard University whose President, DR. ELLIOTT, has recently become an out and out Democrat and whose distinguished professor, JAS. RUSSELL LOWELL the best living specimen of New England culture, is a staunch Democrat. In the faculty at Harvard, composed of 219 professors and instructors, only seven are Republicans. Quite a number are independent in politics but the greatest, as well as the majority of them, are pronounced Democrats. The historian BANCROFT is a life-long Democrat as are thousands of the strongest and best men here. It is an inspiration to see such men, shaking off the dead issues of the past, using their great scholarship and great influence to purify American politics, and strengthen the only party which is in favor of equal rights to all and special privileges to none. Following them are a host of intelligent workers who see in the success of Democratic principles their only hope of emancipation from injustice and oppression. Until recently PRESIDENT ELLIOTT was what is vulgarly called a Mugwump, but he now says that he is an out and out Democrat. The leaven of Democracy is in the body politic here, and Democratic principles are in the ascendancy, and soon will be in the majority at the ballot boxes. Of course the struggle is going to be a hard one, but the THOUGHT and the LABOR of the country will win against BOODLE and DEAD ISSUES.

As one evidence of how true it is that the great thinkers of this country are all coming to be Democrats, it is a fact that there is not a Professor of Political Economy at any first-class college or university who teaches Protection. They all teach the Democratic principles, and the Republicans are crying out against it because, as they allege, the young men who are coming out of college are most all Democrats. Some time ago, it will be remembered, it was seriously proposed by a coterie of Republicans to establish a University where Protection should be taught as the true theory of Political Economy. "The Nation" ridiculed the idea so unmercifully that it was abandoned. "The Nation" said—and said truly—that no scholar worthy to teach in a great University would consent to teach Protection, and requested the Republicans to name one. The challenge could not be met, and the scheme was hastily abandoned. The value of this teaching is seen in the increasing number of young scholars who are leaving the party of their fathers and joining the progressive Democratic party. Conspicuous among them is Mr. WM. E. RUSSELL, the Democratic candidate for Governor in the past two campaigns. Prejudice is hard to overcome, and these young men have up hill work to make New England Democratic. But they are slowly reducing the Republican majority in every State, and they will win.

At the meeting of the Harvard Alumni, the friends of HENRY CABOT LODGE urged his name as a Trustee, but he was defeated. The next day one of the Republican papers of Boston came out with a cartoon showing what it claimed to be a Democratic plan of trying to throw slime on Mr. LODGE. Shades of SUMNER! Here at Harvard, a Republican Congressman is defeated for Trusteeship of the University, and his partisan friends declare it to be Democratic revenge. But how happens it, if the Democrats have only the "scum," that among the Alumni of Harvard they can average themselves upon an opponent? Of course no such purpose actuated them, but the charge shows that the Republicans acknowledge they have the power. Speaking of Harvard, our North Carolina representatives have made a most enviable record at Cambridge. PROF. LOVE has held the Morgan fellowship in mathematics, HORACE WILLIAMS has been the foremost student of Philosophy, and COLLIER COBB the foremost of the younger geologists and president of the Southern Club, stands at the head of his work and is held in high esteem by his professors.

Along the line of the growth of Democratic ideas in this home of culture I thought it would be a good illustration to see how the papers of the two parties compared in point of circulation. The readers of the CHRONICLE will remember that a few weeks ago MR. CLARKSON declared that the press of the country was in the hands of the Democrats, and called upon the Republicans to establish strong papers at the centres and to rally to their support. He said that so far as the independent papers were concerned they were all preaching Democracy, and that they did the Republican party quite as much damage as if they were out and out Democratic. He quoted statistics of the leading papers of the country to show that the most influential of the press was in the hands of the Democrats.

It is certainly so in Boston. I give the circulation and the names of the papers:

Republican.
Record (a small penny paper)	70,000.
Journal	50,000.
Traveller	12,000.
Transcript	10,000.
Advertiser	10,000.
Total	152,000.
Democratic and Independent.
Globe (Dem.)	145,000.
Herald (Ind. and gen. Dem.)	135,000.
Post (Dem.)	10,000.
	290,000.

What does this prove? Simply that the people are Democrats, and that the Democrats in the North in conviction outnumber their opponents. There are so many employers who drive their employees to the polls and compel them to vote the Republican ticket that the real number of the two parties is not correctly registered. But a better day is coming on that line! J. D.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

Person county instructed for Williams for Congress, Winston for Judge, and Parker for Solicitor.

The Lenoir Congressional delegation is divided between Mr. J. M. Mewborne and Hon F. M. Simmons.

The Green County Democratic Convention endorsed Hon. F. M. Simmons for Congress in the Second district.

Solicitor W. H. Bower has a card in the Morganton Herald announcing himself as a candidate for Congress in the 8th district.

It is an error that Capt. Oct. Coke is a candidate for Congress as a member of the Alliance. Capt. Coke is not a member of the Alliance, and as we understand it, is not a candidate for Congress. Capt. Coke has patriotically accepted the position of Chairman of the Wake County Democratic Executive Committee, and is exerting his well known ability to make a Democratic county.

Chatham County Convention endorses Judge Womack and W. F. Stroud for Congress. Although Mr. Stroud knew nothing of the movement, he received practically the endorsement of the convention. Before Mr. Stroud would allow his name to be presented, he made a statement. He said that if they wished to vote for him, they must not vote for him as a Farmers' Alliance candidate, as he would not accept the position if tendered to him as such. He belonged to that organization it is true, but he was a Democrat every inch, and any political preferment that might be offered to him must be tendered to him as a Democrat and nothing else.—Exchange.

Mr. EAVES has retaliated. DR. MOTT's son has been his chief deputy, and a few days ago the Collector asked for his resignation. Young MOTT declined to resign, whereupon MR. EAVES removed him. The wonder to us is that young MOTT was not summarily kicked out by the man—not afraid of—the devil when MR. MOTT began fighting EAVES' combination.

Kemmler to Die by Electricity.

(By United Press.)

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 3.—Kemmler has been sentenced to die by electricity during the week beginning August 4th.
